Folio, full white pigskin binding, embossed with designs by William Morris, brass clasps, edges gilt in rough, at the Doves Bindery, by Cobden-Sanderson. Kelmscott Press, 1896

This is not one of the regular pigskin copies; it was originally in half-holland. Mr. Peirce had Cobden-Sanderson rebind it in pigskin, after the same style as those bound under Mr. Morris's order from his own designs, and as this was a special order, more care was exercised in the embossing, with the result of a much handsomer specimen of binding than any of the forty-eight copies mentioned in "Note by William Morris," page 47.

Presentation copy from William Morris to Kate Faulkner, the sister of his old college friend and business partner, with the signed autograph inscription, dated July 7, 1896.

The most important work issued by the Kelmscott Press, and the masterpiece of the nineteenth century.

- 193 ANOTHER COPY. Folio, white pigskin binding, embossed with designs by William Morris, brass clasps, edges gilt in the rough, at the Doves Bindery, by Cobden-Sanderson. Kelmscott Press, 1896

H. Hooper, the engraver, and T. J. Cobden-Sanderson, the binder.

William Morris's Own Proofs of the Woodcuts Designed by Sir E. Burne-Jones for the Kelmscott Chaucer.

- 195 A SERIES OF EIGHTY-SEVEN WOOD ENGRAVINGS. After the Designs by Sir Edward Burne-Jones, for Illustrating the Kelmscott Chaucer, being the first proofs from the blocks, taken for William Morris, neatly mounted and matted in five large frames.

These woodcuts were mounted and framed under the superintendence of William Morris for himself, and hung in the office of the Kelmscott Press. They were sold to Mr. Peirce by his widow. Neither of the other two sets was selected with the same care as Mr. Morris used in selecting these.

Of these proofs there are not over three sets in existence, and the others, unlike these, are in many cases on thin paper, and not quite uniform. These are all on thick paper and uniform. One of the sets is owned in England. The other was bought by Mr. Peirce for Carl Edelheim, at the time he bought his. Mr. Edelheim's set was bought by a friend of Mr. Peirce's at his suggestion, and is quite likely it will never be sold.

collectors, and three of the 32 in museums, and the others in the hands of private friends, is evidence enough of its rarity.'

It was the intention of Mr. Morris to print Froissart's Chronicles, but after several attempts the project was abandoned Nov. 12, 1896. At that time about thirty-four pages were in type, but no sheets had been printed. Before the type was broken up, on Dec. 24, 1896, thirty-two copies of sixteen of these pages were printed and given as mementos to personal friends of the poet and printer, whose death now made the completion of the book impossible.

Of this Mr. Cockerell says, "This is one of 32 copies in the world, and many more than that number of collectors, and three of the 32 copies in museums; and the others in the hands of private friends, is evidence enough of its rarity."

One of thirty-two copies of "Sigurd the Volsung," which were struck off on January 11, 1897, and presented to friends with the sixteen pages of Froissart, (described under lot 203). be photographed or reproduced in any form. This set Mr. Peirce obtained from Mrs. Morris under this stipulation. We believe only one set has heretofore been sold.

Of these engravings Mr. Cockerell says, "As early as 1866 an edition of The Earthly Paradise was projected, which was to have been a folio in double columns, profusely illustrated by Sir Edward Burne-Jones, and typographically superior to the books of that time. The designs for the stories of Cupid and Psyche, Pygmalion and the Image, The Ring given to Venus, and The Hill of Venus, were finished, and forty-four of those for Cupid and Psyche were engraved on wood in line, somewhat in the manner of the early German masters. About thirty-five of the blocks were executed by William Morris himself & the remainder by George Y. Wardle, G. F. Campfield, C. J. Faulkner and Miss Elizabeth Burden. Specimen pages were set up in Calston type, and in the Chiswick Press type afterwards used in The House of the Wolfings, but for various reasons the project went no further." These engravings include the side ornaments, three of which appear on page 9, in Cockerell's description of the Kelmscott Press.

With the autograph of Arthur J. Gaskin on fly-leaf.

"Toward the end of Mr. Morris's life, he printed at the Kelmscott Press, the carol, GOOD KING WENCELAS, which begins with a lusty freshness.

"Good King Wencelas look'd out,
On the feast of Stephen,
When the snow lay round about,
Deep and crisp and even,
Brightly shone the moon that night,
Though the frost was cruel,
When a poor man came in sight,
Gathering winter fuel.

"The legend itself," he comments, "is a pleasing and genuine one, and the Christmas-like quality of it, recalling the times of my boyhood, appeals to me at least as a memory of past days!"—Cary's William Morris.

1849. (Printed for the Author.)

London: Smith, Elder & Co., 1849

First Edition.

- 382 POEMS. J. R.

12mo, original green cloth, gilt lyre stamped on side, gilt edge. Collected, 1850

This little volume was not published, but merely printed for private circulation, and has now become the rara avis of Ruskin literature. All the poems contained in the volume were written between the age of 14 and 28, and at the head of each poem is given the author's age.

This copy is of particular interest, as it bears the inscription in the autograph of the author's father, "From the Authors Father to his Beloved Daughter in Law on her Birth day 7th May, 1850," which justify the belief that the volume was printed at the expense of Ruskin's father, who presented the first copy to his daughter-in-law, who afterwards became the wife of Sir John E. Millais. This volume also contains the bookplate of John Ruskin.

LETTERS FROM JOHN RUSKIN.

- 493A RUSKIN, JOHN. Autograph Letter, signed. 4 pp. 8vo. About February, 1855. To Dante Gabriel Rossetti.
An exceedingly interesting letter, rather severely criticising Mr. Cayley's translation of Dante's Poems, more as a piece of advice to Rossetti, as he says: "I write this for you only, because I think & as your taste is unformed in verse, & so that the thought be good you have not enough studied modes of expression. . . . Please give the enclosed to your brother. . . . I want you both to come and dine with us." Etc.
- 493B RUSKIN, JOHN. Autograph Letter, signed. Folio. About May, 1855. To Dante Gabriel Rossetti.
"I want you to do me a troublesomest favour, to come out next Saturday & sit down, to make out for me as well as you can what certain colours are that Turner uses, & how they have been laid on. Come out as early as you can & lunch Meantime." Etc.

- 493C RUSKIN, JOHN. Autograph Letter, signed. 8vo. Corpus Christi College, Oxford, 29th April, 1875.

"My dear Ralston. I am indeed grieved at the contents of your letter, and yet partly triumphant, in hearing of an English gentleman who resigns himself to live on so narrow an income, further diminished by duty to relations, I wish you would teach me to do the same,—it seems to me more distinctly every day as if that it may become my own duty to live at least on as little as I can, if I would enforce simplicity of life on others."

- 493D RUSKIN, JOHN. Autograph Letter, signed. 3 pp. 8vo. Brantwood, 30th March, 1887. To Theodore Bull. With addressed stamped envelope.

"I am deeply interested by your letter, but your comfortless feelings are entirely morbid, and probably in great part the consequence of overfatigue. No one has any complicity in — unless we take shares in them; nor in any other evil in the world unless we are hindered by some cowardice from speaking our mind about it when we are asked. I speak mine unasked, because people attribute me and I rather pride myself in, some gift of speech—but for most sensible people, the proper way is to lead the comfortablest useful (or harmless) lives they can, & let the world wag. As for resisting its present rage of lust and avarice—you might as well try to stop a prairie fire. All you can do is escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed."

This letter is signed in full "John Ruskin," which is very unusual.

DANTE GABRIEL ROSSETTI AND MEMBERS OF THE ROSSETTI FAMILY.

First Editions and Autograph Letters.

- 494 ROSSETTI. The Germ. Thoughts toward Nature in Poetry, Literature and Art. Four etchings by Holman Hunt, Ford Madox Brown, James Collinson and W. H. Deverall. The four numbers. 8vo, in the original wrappers, as issued. London: Aylott & Jones, and Dickinson & Co., 1850

A remarkable set, being in IMMACULATE CONDITION THROUGHOUT, AND IN ABSOLUTELY CORRECT STATE, with all of the many bibliographical "points."

The wrappers are of the highest importance, as they alone contain the titles, dates, etc., and (on the inside) the list of contents. The fifty poems and articles are chiefly by D. G. Rossetti, Christina Rossetti, W. M. Rossetti, Thomas Woolner, Ford Madox Brown, W. B. Scott, and Coventry Patmore.

This copy contains the very rare octavo sheet, giving notice of the change of the name of the periodical from the "Germ," to "Art and Poetry."

"In the early months of 1850 the members of the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood, with the co-operation of some friends, brought out a short-lived magazine named 'The Germ' (afterwards 'Art and Poetry') here appeared the first verses and the first prose published by Rossetti, including the First Editions of Rossetti's 'Blessed Damozel' (subsequently much altered) 'My Sister's Sleep,' 'From the Cliffs-Noon' (afterwards called 'Sea Limits'), 'The Caisson,' 'Pax Vobis' and 'Hand and Soul,' besides six Sonnets; also contributions from W. M. Rossetti (The Editor) Christina Rossetti, Coventry Patmore, Ford Madox Brown, etc."

No. 1. (Price One Shilling.) JANUARY, 1850.

With an Etching by W. HOLMAN HUNT.

The Germ:

Thoughts towards Nature

In Poetry, Literature, and Art.

When whoso merely hath a little thought
Will plainly think the thought which is in him,—
Not imaging another's bright or dim,
Not mangling with new words what others taught;
When whoso speaks, from having either sought
Or only found,—will speak, not just to skim
A shallow surface with words made and trim,
But in that very speech the matter brought:
Be not too keen to cry—"So this is all!—
A thing I might myself have thought as well,
But would not say it, for it was not worth!"
Ask: "Is this truth?" For is it still to tell
That, be the theme a point or the whole earth,
Truth is a circle, perfect, great or small?

- "Here writ was the World's History by his hand
Whose steps knew all the earth; albeit his world
In these few piteous paces then was furl'd
Here daily, hourly, have his proud feet spann'd
This smaller speck than the receding land
Had ever shown his ships; what time he hurl'd
Abroad o'er new-found visions spiced and pearl'd
His country's high dominion and command.
- "Here dwelt two spheres. The vast terrestrial zone
His spirit traversed, and that spirit was
Itself the Zone celestial, toward whose birth
The planets played within the zodiac's girth;
Till hence through unjust death unfear'd, did pass
His spirit to the only land unknown."

Not long ago, I sent some poems of mine to Leigh Hunt, requesting him to read them and tell me if they were worth anything. His answer is so flattering that I cannot quote any part of it, lest it should seem like conceit. Moreover he requests me, as soon as he has moved into another house (by reason of which removal he is at present in some bustle & confusion) to give him the pleasure of my acquaintance.!!!!" Etc.

TENNYSONIANA.

- 566 TENNYSON, ALFRED, LORD. Autograph Letter, signed. 2 pp. Farringford, Dec. 19, 1856. To Richard Doyl. With cabinet portrait.

"My dear Doyle

"Simeon brought me the other day your landskip or Seaskip for it is both, Did I beg it, as your letter seems to imply? it was very shameful in me nevertheless I cannot be very repentent seeing that I have got it & that we are both so much pleased with it, I am not sure that I shall not send you an engraving done from it one of these day, that is if you will permit me to have it engraved, there are first however three separate distances of the downs that I shall get you to put in next time you are here & we hope that may be very soon. Easter at the latest if all be well with us, we have some compunction in asking any one not an American to come on so arduous a journey in winter."

Fine specimen.

- 567 TENNYSON. — Timbuctoo. — Prolusiones Academicæ Præmiis Annuis Dignatæ et in curia Cantabrigiensi, Recitatæ Comitibus Maximis A.D. M.DCCC.XXIX. — Second Title is as follows: Timbuctoo. A Poem, which obtained The Chancellor's Medal at the Cambridge Commencement M.DCCC.XXIX. By A. Tennyson, of Trinity College. 8vo, original paper covers, uncut.

Cantabrigiæ, Typis Academicis Excudit Joannas Smith.

The exceedingly rare First Edition. The poem was never reprinted by the author, but three or four scattered lines of it appear in the "Ode to Memory" (1830) and in "The Lover's Tale" (1838). Arthur Hallam was one of the unsuccessful competitors for this prize, and Thackeray, then also at Trinity, ridiculed the choice of subject. The Anthænæum Journal had the courage and the foresight to sound a trumpet-note of praise, heralding the advent of a new poet. This pamphlet also contains poems in Latin, Greek and English, by Charles Merivale and C. R. Kennedy.

SEE FACSIMILE OF TITLE.

Privately printed, 1862

"This is Hotten's pirated volume, said by Mr. Wise to have been edited by J. Dykes Campbell, and to have been printed in the island of Mauritius; Shepherd says he 'never saw a copy,' and that he did not know its contents. It contains all of Tennyson's poems printed in the 1830 and 1833 volumes, which were suppressed in the 1842 edition. * * * In Hotten's catalogue of 1862 he says, 'the lost poems of the Poet Laureate.' These are choice poems that have been dropped or thrown aside by the poet. * * * They have been collected with considerable care and labor by a gentleman of great literary taste, in western Canada. * * * * It is understood that only an exceedingly limited number of copies have been taken off, most creditably in point of workmanship at the Backwood's Press."
